Elephants Have Maternity Wards'

Kampala, June 30. Elephant "maternity wards' have been found in the Northern Province of Umnda'.

A game ranger on the Northern noticed several times that where elephant breeding herds have been in thick bush and wooded regions. large, roughly circular spaces have been smashed ffat and even large trees knacked down.

These clearings appeared to have been deliberately made and not merely haphazard destruction caused by elephants feeding or in play.

The game ranger said that one such "maternity ward" he saw in the elephant sanctuary had been formed by several large trees being knocked down and dragged into a proper well-knit circular bema (compound), with one small opening.

Here, he was told, the cow stood guard over her newly born defenceless baby, with her head to the opening, the strong boma of trees and branches at her rear and flanks being the means of defence against attackers.—China Mail Special.

Already Venezuela, Indonesia and Sweden have come forward with considerable orders for ships. "Gripsholm," the Swedish America Line, has placed orders for about 140,000 tons, which include a 24,000-ton . passengercargo liner, two tankers of about 22,000 tons and a number of smaller tankers, freighters and Venezuela Indonesia destroyers and corvettes, besides small coastal trade vessels.

Busides these boosting orders to the economy of the Italian shippards, the nation's shipping lines themselves have begun to extend and expand their foreign trade routes calculated to bring the nation back to its pre-war standard. They have placed orders totalling about 120,000 tons planning up-to-date 20,000ton liners large tankers and pussenger-cargo freighters.

ERRAND BOY

What is the Shinwell story It begins in Spitalfields, London where Emanuel Shinwell of a tailor's 13 children.

Search for business took the family north. In Glasgow Shinwell started work as an errand boy at the age of 121/2. But every evening found him in the public library, reading until the doors shut at ten.

On Sunday afternoons, a boywonder among hecklers, the vented his sweated learning at "Speakers' Corner" in Square.

With this training Shinwell soon became paramount among the notorious "wild men" of Clydeside. After clashes between police and strikers on Glasgow's Red Friday Shinwell got than Willie Gallagher.

Barely three years after leaving Calton Prison Shinwell became an M.P.

Ramsay MacDonald noted his ability and gave him posts in both his Governments. Lonely, flinching at every jab of criticism, he would invite Shinwell to his Hampstead home where they paced the garden together.

CHIEF THEME

The disloyalty of colleagues and especially of Snowden whom he denounced as "no orator and no Socialist." Shinwell also basking shyly in the confidences of Snowden and his wife Ethel. At tea with them in Golders Green he would hear all about MacDonald's feeble grasp of events.

In 1931 Shinwell suffered the general disaster which these two leaders brought on their join. Shinwell's" answer is MacDonald co-opt him for his National to the Manny faction." Government. "I want you to The Manny faction. It has

Then he took a poorly-paid job as a Socialist Party propagendist. Expenses were not provided unless local parties helped. One local committee respectfully booked him a room at the best hotel in Newport but failed to pay the bill. The next morning saw this ex-Minister trudging through Newport in search of somewhere to pawn his overcoat.

His return to Parliament rang with irony. At a key meeting was born 70 years ago, the first of Clydeside M.P.s. in 1922 he had been the first to propose Ramsay MacDonald as Socialist leader. In Scaham at the 1935 General Election he toppled the old man to his final fall by majority of 21,000 votes.

During the Second World War Shinwell became the Government's most constant critic. He and Lord Winterton, strangely paired in opposition, earned the title "Arsenic and Old Lace." Such criticism, Shinwell claims, worried Churchill's lesser men more than-Churchill

BRITAIN'S TWO FASTEST MILERS WILL NOT MEET CHAMPIONSHIPS

"RECORDER"

Britain's two fastest Milers, Chris Chataway and Brian Hewson, both of whom broke the four-minute barrier earlier this year, will not meet in the AAA Championships at the White City, London, on July 15 and 16.

Brian Hewson, who is not Britain's fastest Half-Miler, will be defending his Half Mile Championship. Derek Johnson, who is Britain's fastest Half Miler, will be, it is understood, confining himself to the defence of his 440 Yards Championship, Chris Chataway, who is Britain's fastest Miler, will confine himself to an attempt to recapture the Three Miles Championship.

Surrey And Yorkshire Win Their Matches A Day To Spare

London, June 30.

The County Cricket Championship tussle between Surrey and Yorkshire intensified today as both won their matches with over a day to spare. Surrey, holders for the past three years and current leaders, raced to a ten wickets victory over Worcestershire at the Oval while Yorkshire won by 96 runs against Hampshire at Bournemouth,

Russian Crews Reach Semi-Finals In Four Of Their Five Events

Henley-on-Thames, June 30. The Russian oarsmen, who yesterday withdrew because their own boats were not available and then later asked for re-admission, made a successful start — in a borrowed boat — to the defence of their three titles today at Henley Royal Regatta. Russian crews reached the semi-finals of four of the five events for which they were originally entered. Their single sculler, Yuri Tukalov, was scratched from yesterday's Diamond Schulls. "

She Is Suing The Race Track For A Lost Bet

New York, June 30. Miss Paula Aiello, 23, loday began a case before the State Supreme Court, which has all of New York's race track owners sweating. She is suing to recover $425 which she said she lost in bets at the Queen's race track. She said she is suing under a section of the New York State penal code, which, declares that all: persons who lose a bet have a right to bring suit to recover the lost sum. As her lawyer, Lee Bosco, told journalists. "If my client wins this case, everybody who has lost money at the races could be reimbursed. Although the New York horse racing law was voted in 1940, the section under which Miss Aiello is suing, voted previously, was never abrogated and still has the force of law. Bosco said --France-Presse.

THE OUEEN KNIGHTS THE CHAMPION, AND TALKS RACING

By JOHN HALL and JOHN RICKMAN

Nothing pleased sportsmen and women throughout the world, those who race and those who do not, more than the young Queen's act in bestowing a knighthood on Gordon Richards. That was in 1953, the second year of her reign, Coronation Year.

Never before has a monarch conferred such signal honour upon a jockey. Her thought was universally acclaimed. It was another earnest of her deep affection for the Turf, as well as of her high regard for the incomparable little jockey,

"Our city was named after your village, so we've always wanted to come here," explained. Miss Dorothy Davidson, a 60year-old schoolteacher, to the Duchess. Then she introduced her accountant brother 55-yearold William, her sister Janette, aged 70, and Agnes, aged 65, brother-in-law Frank Dennes, a retired Custom's and her 10-year-old nicce: Patricia Dennes ----

Before the party began to tour the house the Duchess took them into her private sittingroom to show them her personal photographs and a little jade table, one belonging to the Mogul kings, which was given to her by Queen Mary,

And she gave them, all a signed copy of the illustrated guide to Albury which she wrote herself.

"Of course, that means a drop in profits, but I never have been much of a business woman and I loved giving pleasure to others," smiled the Duchess afterwards.
